THE CROWDED STREET.

BY WILLIAM CULLEN BRYANT.
Let me move slowly through the street,
Filled with an ever-shifting train,
And the sound of steps that beat
The murmuring walks like Autumn rain.

How fast the flitting figures come!
The mild, the stern, the stately face—Some bright with thoughtless smiles, and Some whose secret tears have left their trace.

They pass to toil, to strife, to rest—
To tasks in which the feast is spread—To chambers where the funeral guest In silence sits beside the bed.

Am I some to happy homes repair,
Where children pressing cheek to cheek,
With matted curls and hair that gleam,
The tenderness they cannot speak.

And some who walk in calmness here,
Shall shudder as they reach the door,
Where one who made their sorrowing dear
His flower, its light, is seen no more.

Youth, with pale cheek and tender frame
And dreams of greatness in thine eye,
Goes forth to build an early name,
Or early in the task to die.

Keen son of trade, with eager brow,
Who is now flitting in thy snare,
Thy golden fortunes, lower they grow,
Or melt the glittering spires in air?

Who of this crowd to-night shall tread
The dance till daylight gleams a red?
Who sorrow over the calamity
Who write in throes of mortal pain?

Some, flame-struck, shall think how long
The cold, dark hours, how slow the light,
And those who flout amid the throng,
Shall hide in dens of shame to-night.

Each where his tasks or pleasures call,
They pass and heed each other not.
There is one who heeds, who holds them all,
In his large love and boundless thought.

These struggling hordes of life, that seem In wayward, aimless course to tend,
Are eddies of the mighty stream
That rolls to its appointed end.

Death of Jesse O. Goodwin.

[Virginia Enterprise.]
Jesse O. Goodwin, for thirty years a resident of Marysville, California, died yesterday before last at the White Sulphur Springs, near Vallejo, California. He has been a prominent man in California since before California became a State. Others will tell of his intellectual attainments; of the laurels he honorably won in a field where bright minds struggled in sharp competition; of his power and influence; of his triumphs at the bar and the forum. But they may not tell, for but a little circle knows, how royal was the heart which, with an imperishable mask, he wore from the world, or how his chiefest trait was a sense of perfect justice, which to him was the

"Acorn" measure of all things of God.
By it he measured all men alike,
Whether rich or poor, gifted or simple.
More than once he subdued or held a boy a mob; and yet there was not a day of his healthful years that little children and the lowly ones of the earth were not made happier because he lived. His was essentially a golden life, and the flowers of the Golden State never lifted above a grave which held a greater heart than his.

"His tribe were God Almighty's gentlemen."

HUMOROUS.

Syracuse Times: "Here," said the farmer, as he exhibited a broken jar to the manufacturer, "I packed this jar full of butter, and the jar split from top to bottom. Perhaps you can explain the phenomenon." "Oh, yes, I can," was the ready reply, "the butter was stronger than the jar."

Norristown Herald: "Since the announcement made of a New York religious weekly, a few monies ago, that it would give a pocket pistol to every subscriber, it has more than doubled its circulation in Texas and Kentucky."

Newark Call: An Eighth Ward man, who has a very cross wife, remarked recently in reply to the cognomen of a friend, that his wife was really a saint, since she bore her cross every day of her life.

Buffalo Express: The Detroit Free Press expresses the opinion that while the country most wants more politicians, perhaps; but it will be necessary to build on an addition in order to accommodate it.

Waterloo Observer: He thrust his head into the sanctum door, and shouted: "Did you get the news?" But aim was sure, and the fiend now sleeps under the present crop of daisies.

Kentucky New Era: Nym having heard that Yalmage said "hell was four gates," observed that he hardly thought the number sufficient to let out the crowd in case of a fire.

St. Louis Spirit: Men prate about women looking beautiful in calico, but somehow the young lady who prome-nades once in calico never gets a second invitation.

Whitehall Times: A Whitehall dog tried to drink ten quarts of milk in ten consecutive hours, on Thursday. He made 37 laps and tipped over the dish.

Waterloo Observer: The trouble with this country at present appears to be, I at here are too many men with rich men's desires and poor men's pockets.
